The OtoArt Exhibition & Charity Auction is a fundraising initiative of the Walter Spohn Trust (WST). The WST provides financial support for educational and research initiatives aimed at advancing the field of anaplastology. Anaplastology is a healthcare specialty focused on providing custom, restorative facial and somatic prostheses for patients who have suffered the loss of anatomy as a result of trauma, disease, or congenital origin. Since 2011, OtoArt shows have celebrated artistic inspiration drawn from the complex form of the human ear, where imaginative artists transform twelve-inch polyurethane ear forms into Visual Expressions of Hearing. OtoArt Ear Sculptures are featured each year at the International Anaplastology Association conference. This year, the OtoArt has expanded the celebration to include the entire human body: Head to Toe.

A maximum of 12 submissions will be selected for exhibition at the 2019 International Anaplastology Association Annual Conference in Scottsdale, Arizona, and subsequently auctioned to raise funds in support of the Walter Spohn Trust. A winning design will be chosen by popular vote of IAA member present at the conference. The winning artist will receive a prize of $1,000 USD.

OtoArt Sponsors are an essential part of this exciting and beneficial project. Sponsor-provided donations to the WST support the costs of transporting, cataloging, displaying, and shipping each original OtoArt piece as well as supporting the administrative costs of organizing the exhibit and auction. Sponsors will receive various benefits and be recognized (in accordance with their selected Sponsorship Level) throughout the exhibit, online auction, and the IAA Annual Conference, as well as on the OtoArt website, and in OtoArt promotional materials, and other designated WST Fundraising Events.
